Drought Management Centre for South East Europe (DMCSEE)

In the past few decades it has become evident that all countries in SEE are affected by droughts which are becoming more and more long lasting and severe. Since 1998 a series of meetings and workshops have been held on European and subregional level, expressing the need for a Balkan Drought Monitoring Centre. The idea was further elaborated by International Commission on Irrigation and Drainage (ICID) that adopted a declaration which expressed the need to establish this centre to alleviate problems caused by drought in the area...
